General Richardson had been murdered by a gambler named Cora, and the latter was under arrest.

The southern part of the State was threatened with Indian disturbances. They were stealing large numbers of cattle.

The Americans had held a State Convention at Sacramento, and appointed delegates to the Philadelphia National Convention, instructing them to vote for no man for President unless he is in favor of a Pacific Railroad, and opposed to slavery agitation.

The Indian disturbances in the North, to which we have before alluded, are rather increasing than diminishing, and are exciting universal alarm throughout our frontiers.

Hon. Isaac B. Wall, Collector of the port of Monterey, and T. S. Williamson, an officer of the county of Monterey, were murdered on the 10th inst. They had a large amount of money with them, which was not taken, but their pistols and spurs were gone. The Sheriff of Monterey went out with a party to arrest the murderers, but the latter killed two of their pursuers. utenant Archibald MacRes, commanding

Assassination of General Richardson, United States Marshal.

Never have the people of San Francisco been more intensely excited than on Saturday evening, upon the announcement that General William H. Richardson, United States Marshal for the Northern District of California, had been assassinated in the very heart of the city, by Chas. Cora, an Italian, and a well known sporting character in the gambling saloons of

It seems that on Friday night General Rich ardson and Cora had had a difficulty, which to all appearances, was arranged on Saturday.

On Saturday evening, about six o'clock, the parties met at the "Cosmopolitan," on Montgomery street, between Clay and Commercial, where the difficulty of the previous evening had occurred. After some conversation, and at about half-past six o'clock they walked arm in arm down Clay street, until they reached the building once known as Godeffroy & Sill em's, and at present occupied by Fox & O'Con-nor. Here, in front of the first door they stop-ped, and had some conversation, a portion of which was overheared by different parties, as detailed below, and all, uncontradicted as it is, howing that one of the most wanton and de liberate murders on record was perpetrated. Richardson was understood to ask if it was all right. The reply was in the affirmative. Some words in a low tone passed. A pistol was seen in one of Cora's hands, whilst with the other he grasped Richardson by the throat, and shoved him into the door. Richardson was then heard to remonstrate against his firing as he was unarmed. Cora, with his pistol—a Derringer—against Richardson's breast, fired, held him up for a moment, and then let him down upon the sidewalk, and slowly walked up Clay street, when the alarm being given, he was arrested without resistance.

Those who first reached the prostrate form of General Richardson, found him lying on his face, with his head towards the street, and his feet on the door sill. A leaded Derringer was lying near his hand, and soon after a Bowie, recognized as the property of General Richardson, was handed by an unknown boy to a police officer, which the boy had apparently picked up from the curb-stone. These two incidents are of great importance, and have been developed in the course of the investigation. It also appears that immediately after the alarm was given, a stranger was observed running down from the corner of Clay street, with a pistol, and a startling development, it is said, will be made, to the effect that General Richardson lost both his knife, and his pistol on the previous night. If this should prove to be so, it will at once explain the manner in which the were, as well as the extraordinary declaration of General Richardson that he was unarmed.

General Richardson was then removed to the drug store of Messrs. Keith & Co., corner of Clay and Montgomery, where he expired in about five minutes after he had been shot. After his body had remained there for some time, it was removed to the U. S. Marshal's office, in the Merchant's Exchange, corner of Battery and Washington streets, where a post-mortem examination was held by Drs. Sawyer

Immediately after the commission of the fatal deed, the news spread like wildfire, and an immense concourse collected around the drug store. For a brief period all seemed appalled, but presently some one cried out—"Hang him! hang him!" The proposition was loudly opposed by some as it was urged by others, and there seemed to be no disposition to take any decided action on the part of any

Meanwhile Cora was taken to the Station house, A loaded and unloaded Derringer were found upon his person. He was somewhat ag-itated, and accounted for the act by stating that he was afraid Richardson intended to kill him. Afterwards he said that Richardson had drawn first a Bowie knife and then a pistol upon him, first a Bowie knife and then a pistol upon him, and that he fired in self-defence.

Instead of dispersing the crowd became more exasperated, and a proposition to lynch Cora was put to the vote. There was a mingled shout of "ayes" and "noes"—some who addressed the people advised submission to the laws, whilst others were for rescuing the prisoner, and hanging him at once. oner and hanging him at once.

The Funeral.

Gen. William H. Richardson was buried this afternoon, from Calvary Church, on Bush street, in Mountain Cemetry. His remains were taken from the U.S. Marshal's office, by the Masonic Fraternity, and placed in the hearse, whence they were taken to the church, followed by a procession of his brother Masons. Gen. Richardson was 33 years of age. He had been Quartermaster General of the California militia; was a member of the Democratic National Convention in 1852; and since March '53, has been U. S. Marshall for the Northern District of California. He leaves a young wife, who, in her delicate situation, is brought to the point of death by this sudden and melancholy Exciting News from Rogne River. The following important intelligence is from an extra of the Yreka Union, dated November

Capt. Smith, U. S. A., of Fort Lane. The fight commenced at 1 o'clock, p. m., and continued till 10, the Indians retreating all the while, and firing back upon the whites. At length it was deemed necessary that steps be taken to provide for the wounded, and a halt was ordered, when the Indians rallied and commenced firing upon the men, to whom prudence dictated the course of retiring to an open space, where a more effectual to whom prudence dictated the course of retiring to an open space, where a more effectual stand could be made, which they accordingly did. It was then ascertained that 18 of the Captain's men had been killed, and 25 wounded—some mortally, others dangerously, and a few slightly. A message was then dispatched to Capt. George, at Althouse, who started immediately with 80 volunteer recruits. He mould in Captain Spatch on Thursday at an

On Thursday last a scouting party of six returned with intelligence that about 250 Indians were in the vicinity of the heads of Antelope and Butte Creeks. Captain Thomas Sm with about 100 men, immediately started out and it is feared that a serious encounter would take place. The attack, it was expected, would be made on Saturday or Sunday last. News of the result is hourly expected.

Fight with Indians in Shasta Valley. On Thursday last, Nov. 1st, a party of sixteen men under Mr. Tupper, of Shasta Valley, fell in with a large body of Indians in the mountains dividing the waters of the Klamath and Shasta rivers. After a brief engagement, and losing one man, the whites were compelled where the fight occurred, and shaping their course for Scott river, by the mountain trail from Scott to Shasta Valley.

It is rumored that two men, Mr. Snow, of the Klamath River Ferry, opposite Beaver Creek, and a man by the name of Scott, have been killed on the trail leading from the Mountain House of Doty & Doyle to the Klamath river.

A party of 25 or 30 started from Deadwood A party of 25 or 30 started from Deadwood yesterday to look into the matter. These two men left the Mountain House on Tuesday even ing last for the Ferry. On Saturday, Mr. Doyle went in search of lost animals; and found papers and a machiere, belonging to Mr. Snow, cut and torn up, and other marks of violence. These circumstances gave rise to the suspicio that both had been killed. More Re-inforcements for Col. Walker

Several gentlemen during the call loudly ejaculated either "Banks," or "Richardson," instead of "yea" or "nay," as that part of the proceedings required! This showed the effect of habit. Their names had previously been called fifty-eight times, that they migh pronounce their choice for Speaker. THE GLOBE:

paper for the People.

I address my annual circular to the public, apprising it that the Globe will renew its reports of the Congressional Debates at the next session of Congress. It is hardly necessary to say that the proceedings of the next Congress will be of vast import to the country. The issues which have been made in relation to slavery, connected with the great interest which is always taken in Congress in relation to the nomination of presidential candidates, will give intense excitement to the next session, which will be communicated to the public. Whatever is debated in Congress will be debated everywhere. The importance of official reports cannot, therefore, be too highly estimated. The country will pass upon the proceedings of Congress as they progress, and public opinion, if properly informed, will have a salutary influence upon the result.

The Dailly Globs will be printed on a double royal sheet at eleven o'clock every morning, ex-

The Dally Gloss will be printed on a double royal sheet at eleven o'clock every morning, except Sunday, and will contain all the messages of the President of the United States; the reports of the Executive Departments; the entire proceedings of Congress; the laws passed during the session; and the news by telegraph and from other sources up to the hour of going to press. The debates in Congress frequently fill thirty, forty, fifty, and sometimes more than a hundred columns a day. Whenever they make more than twenty-eight columns a day, extra sheets are printed.

columns a day. Whenever they make more than twenty-eight columns a day, extra sheets are printed.

Tussday's Congressional Globe will be published every Tuesday morning, and contain the proceedings of Congress in a condensed form; the current news of the day, and such editorial comment upon the times as may be deemed suitable to the character of the paper. When the debates of a week cannot be condensed into twenty columns, and leave eight columns of the sheet or other matter and advertisements, an extra sheet will be printed.

The Congressional Globe will be the revised edition of the proceedings contained in the Daily Globe, and the laws passed during the session, printed in book form on a royal quarto page, and will, probably, make four volumes of nine hundred pages each. The last volume of the four will be an Appendix, which will contain such speeches as are written out by the members themselves, with such deferred proceedings as necessarily accompany them. Complete indexes will be made out and forwarded to subscriber soon after the end of the session. If a subscriber shall lose any numbers, they will be supplied at the rate of three cents for sixteen pages.

It is admitted by every competent judge, whose opinion I have heard expressed on the subject, that the debates of Congress are better reported, and sold lower than those of any other legislative body. A calculation which I made for the Senate of the United States in April, 1854, shows that Congress pays me for reporting and publishing its debates in the Daily Globe, and then in the Congress pays me for reporting and publishing its debates in the Daily Globe, and then in the Congressional Globe and Appendix, only one eleventh the rate charged in England for publishing the debates of Parliament, and about one seventh the average rate paid by the States of Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Kentucky, (which are all the States in which the prices paid had then been ascertained.) for publishing their debates in the Daily Globe to enable members to revise their rema tus, for about one-half the price paid for them by Congress—the expense of reporting, and then publishing them in the Daily Globe to enable members to revise their remarks for the Congresional Globe and Appendix, are all paid for by Congress, and do not form any part of the $6 which an individual pays for them. Calculations showing the prices paid for debates are printed on the fourth page of the paper.

To facilitate the circulation of the Congressional Globe and cheapen it to subscribers, Congress passed a joint resolutiou making it free of postage. I annex it, as the law may not be accessible to postmasters generally:

stmasters generally:

Joint Resolution providing for the distribution the Laws of Congress and the Debates thereon. "With a view to the cheap circulation of the laws of Congress and the debates contributing to the true interpretation thereof, and to make free the communication between the representative and constituent bodies:

Appendix, which contain the laws and the debates thereon, shall pass free through the mails so long as the same shall be published by order of Congress: Provided, That nothing herein shall be construed to authorize the circulation of the Daily Globe free of postage."

I commenced publishing the Congressional Globe and Appendix in 1833. They now make thirty-seven volumes. The first edition of many of them is exhausted, and I am now reprinting and stereotyping them. They cannot be afforded for less than $7 50 a volume. Should any subscriber wish the back numbers, they will be furnished, well bound, at that rate.

TO THE MEDICAL PROFESSION.

CENTLEMEN.—The valuable medicinal properties of Balsam Copaiba have long been recognized by the faculty, but the great disadvantage arising from its nauseous taste has hitherte prevented its administration in many diseases for which it is particularly adapted. The usual "modus operands" of prescribing it, either in the form of an Emulsion or Gelatinous Capsules, has not been found satisfactory, being liable to some objection, either from the difficulty experienced by some individuals in the deglutition of the Capsule or the small quantity of Copaiba generally found in the Emulsion.

Joyce's tasteless solution of Copaiba is the most unique preparation yet introduced to the medical profession, as it contains 50 per cent. of the purest Para Copaiba, without taste or smell, and at same time mixes clearly and freely with water, and is pronounced by the most eminent physicians and analytical chemists in the old and new worlds to contain all the medicinal properties of Balsam Copaiba without its disagreable characteristics.

"THE SPECTATOR."

A Weekly Journal Published at Washington City.

The undersigned propose to commence about the first of June next, in the City of Washington, the publication of a weekly newspaper, to be called the Sprectator, designed for general circulation among the people of the United States. Its columns will contain a full digest of the news of the day, foreign and domestic; a weekly review of finance and the markets; a synopsis of the proceedings of Congress during its session; tables of election returns; the important political action of State Legislatures, and of party conventions; interesting miscellaneous and scientific matter; articles on Agriculture, together with original articles upon the leading topics of the day. Much valuable information relative to the operations of the Executive Departments, together with a weekly list of new patents, will be found in its columns. A large portion of its space will be devoted to light literature, original, and selected. Its location at the political centre of the state of the content of the conten and selected. Its location at the political centre of the Union, will afford opportunites always to procure the latest and most reliable information on public affairs.

It is the intention of the undersigned to make the SPECTATOR an acceptable visiter to every bouse in the Union, and it will therefore not asbouse in the Union, and it will therefore not assume on any occasion the position of a partizan paper, nor will it owe any allegiance to men; but entertaining fixed and decided views on questions of political economy, and upon our system of government, it will disseminate and promulgate them as occasion may require—always keeping carefully n view the interests of the country, growing out of foreign as well as domestic affairs.

The Spectator will be prighted in quarto form, or good larger, and new type; each number con

The SPECTATOR will be printed in quarto form, on good paper and new type; each number containing eight pages of matter. making one volume annually of 416 pages. Each volume will be accompanied by a full and comple index to its contents, thus making it a most valuable paper for preservation and reference. It will be published every Saturday morning, at $2 per annum, payable always in advance. No paper will be continued beyond the time for which it is paid.

BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD

HAVING greatly improved its Western connections now offers the fullest inducements to travellers between Washington, Baltimore, and all portions of the West, the Northwest and the Southwest.

The connection between the trains from Washington and the trains bound west from Baltimore is always promptly made at the Washington Junction (lately called the Relay House) 9 miles from Baltimore. This is the only change of cars required between Washington and the Ohio river. Baggage is checked through to Wheeling at the Washington station, and rechecked and transferred there, (with the passengers) without charge, for those holding through tickets for points beyond. The connecting trains leave Washington daily at 6 a.m. and 4½ p.m. On Sundays at the latter hour only.

At Wheeling direct connection is made with the trains of the CENTRAL OHIO RAILROAD, run ning from Bellairre on the Ohio, near Wheeling, through Cambridge, Zanesville and Newark, to COLUMBUS. These trains connect at Newark with the cars of the Newark, Mansfield and Sandusky Railroad for Sandusky, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, etc.

usky Railroad for Sandusky, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, etc.

At Columbus the C. O. Railroad trains connect with the fast trains of the Little Miomi Railroad to Xenia, CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE, etc. At Xenia (on Little Miami Railroad) connection is formed with the trains through Dayton, to INDI-ANAPOLIS, Terre Haute, Lafsyette, Chicago, Rock Island, St. Louis, etc.

ID Passengers holding through tickets for Memphis, Vicksburg, Natchez, New Orleans etc., which are also sold at Washington, are transferred at Cincinnati to the Mail Steamers on the Ohio. Tickets for Evansville, Cairo, and St. Louis are sold by this route.
